Tennessee Disability Pathfinder is a statewide program that helps people with disabilities, their family members, caregivers, and professionals who support them in finding and accessing services and resources. Pathfinder serves people of all ages, types of disability, and languages spoken. This is a joint project of the Vanderbilt Kennedy Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities and Tennessee Council on Developmental Disabilities and is partially funded under grant contracts with the Tennessee Departments of Health, Disability & Aging, Education, Human Services/Division of Rehabilitation Services, Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services, and Transportation.

► Technology Outcome and Solutions

Technology Outcomes are ways technology can support an individual with a disability that can occur from using a programmed product, service, or remote support. Select one outcome that best fits the services and technology that could help you with your unique needs.

If you don't see what you're looking for, you can search Technology Outcomes and their related solutions by clicking on "Search Technology Outcomes" keyword search bar above the icons. The question mark will help provide a definition of outcomes and solutions if you are unsure what a specific item is. Clicking the '?' help icons in each option will once again open a window with additional information to help you make your selection(s).

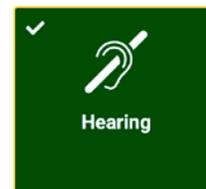

Choose an Outcome to see a list of Technology Solutions that can help you achieve that result.

► Solution(s):

Specific support needs for using technology. Select multiple solutions to determine providers that offer different types of products and services. After you select an outcome, you will be able to select specific solutions. You can select multiple solutions that align with the services and technology that may be helpful to you.
